

Our COVID-19 Response

Greetings from Bookworm Central!

Even though May is here with blooming flowers, blue skies and spring showers, established norms in all our lives have been impacted. As we acknowledge with sadness that—at least for a while—we will not be able to serve our schools and community in the same way as before, we recognize that the uninterrupted care and education of children needs to continue unabated and so must our work.

At Bookworm Central, in response to the present circumstances, we have redefined our programs and restructured our operations to be readily available online. We are ready to work alongside our schools to continue the important work of connecting books with children.

Please know that we are here to assist you and appreciate your engagement and support while we work together to keep children reading until they are back in school. Sending you best wishes for a safe and healthy summer!

Our Top Priorities at This Time

1. The health, safety and well-being of our employees, partners and community.
2. Supporting schools, educators, families and children by providing easy access to resources on user-friendly online platforms.
3. Ensuring that our solutions are equitable and can be easily adapted to meet the diverse needs and requests of different school divisions.
4. Building innovative collaborations that address the present day needs of bringing books and other curated curriculum resources to children in their homes.
5. Redefining our work operations and services so we may positively contribute to the economic environment of our community.

Feel free to reach out to us with your needs, requirements, thoughts and ideas at outreach@bookwormcentral.com.

Our Work at This Time

We are working to bring easy and equitable access to curated literary resources through our specialty adapted online services and innovative partnerships:

Unique and timely collaborations with school divisions, schools, educators, and parents are allowing us to place much needed books in the hands of thousands of children, right in their homes.

Our Work Matters

- As schools, teachers, parents and students find themselves in an enigmatic space, access to curated resources and programs can help guide and support them.
- As learning from home continues, regular reading practices will be essential to preserving and improving literacy skills.
- To help children thrive, innovative solutions and partnerships that bring joy, comfort and hope can yield a high ROI in the long run.
- Our literacy initiatives can sustain vocabulary, comprehension and critical thinking skills among all students.
- School-wide initiatives and online events help with community building in these times of social distancing.

*In this present moment, let us do the best we can,
with what we have, for the larger good.*
